From: Financial Times Briefing <FT@news-alerts.ft.com>
To: Barak barak <Ehbarak1@gmail.com>
CC:
Date: Wed, 3/23/2016 9:31:22 AM
Subject: In today's FT: Manhunt for suspected Brussels bomber...

Wednesday March 23 2016

UK HOMEPAGE

Manhunt for suspected Brussels bomber

Terrorist atrocity hits a European capital for second time in four months

The day the heart of the EU was attacked

Panic, paranoia and resilience in Brussels as blasts shake diplomatic capital

Killings point to resilience of Isis operations

Jihadis' capabilities in Europe more extensive than previously thought

US HOMEPAGE

Brussels attacks — How the day unfolded

Updates on the blasts at city's airport and metro station

Witness account: inside the Maalbeek metro

'We all went to the ground . . . People were crying and screaming'

Fear and acrid smoke descend on Brussels

Terrorist attacks bring an air of chilling familiarity to locations on the morning commute

EUROPE HOMEPAGE

Populist politicians seize on Brussels attacks

Trump, Front National and Ukip bolster anti-immigrant message

Belgian security services face scrutiny

Agency chiefs complain of overstretched resources as critics point to intelligence failings

Obama vows to bury the cold war in Cuba

US president urges young Cubans to 'build something new' in historic speech in Havana

ASIA HOMEPAGE

Saudis to freeze oil output without Iran

Move paves way for deal among big producers

Woodside shelves $40bn LNG project

Australian group the latest to shelve big energy development as gas prices tumble

Trump questions US role in Nato

Republican frontrunner says Washington can no longer afford its commitment to military alliance

MARKETS

Asia markets subdued as global rally loses steam

Region’s equities flat after cautious moves on both sides of the Atlantic

Trudeau unveils C$60bn stimulus plan for Canada

PM’s first budget looks to revive sluggish growth in energy-rich economy

Travel-related stocks shaken by Brussels attacks

US stocks lack direction but healthcare a standout performer

Stocks stay cautious after recent gains

Brussels attacks have limited effect

Chinese currency moves sow confusion

Renminbi slides against basket but remains wedded to dollar — running counter to supposed new regime

WORLD NEWS

Peruvian presidential candidates face growing uncertainty

Two candidates have already been barred from the race, with Keiko Fujimori also under threat

French court clouds Sarkozy’s presidential prospects

Ruling by top appeal court revives a corruption probe into the politician

‘Dangerous’ Trump trade policies attacked by top businessman

Jim McNerney enters political fray, expressing concern about ‘putting up walls’

UN criticises EU migrant deal as Greece opens detention centres

Refugee agency suspends some work at closed facilities on Aegean Islands

Nigeria central bank changes tack with surprise rate rise

Economic growth under pressure after collapse in oil price

COMPANIES NEWS

Vitol and Gunvor report stellar profits

Both oil traders announce net income of more than $1.2bn for 2015

Streaming beats digital downloads to top US music money league

Spotify, Pandora and Apple Music lead 29% rise in revenues to $2.4bn

Financial advice: New race for the saver's dollar

As plans to cut fees on US retirement products draw fire from providers, 'robo-advisers' lay in wait

Competition watchdog reverses ruling on private hospital sales

CMA drops demands after admitting figures in five-year investigation are 'flawed'

Bertelsmann to spend up to €1.3bn a year on acquisitions

Chief Thomas Rabe looks to accelerate shift to digital video and online education

COMMENT

Rob Ford, former Toronto mayor, 1969-2016

Canadian populist maintained strong support despite admitting to smoking crack

China plays ball with its development lending

The Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank has made a wise move

An assault on Brussels, and on European values

Isis terror attacks make the case for 'more Europe' in security

Brussels attacks show that terrorists can strike at will

The surveillance problems can no longer be described as Belgian alone, writes Raffaello Pantucci

Nigeria's government: living the high life

Targeting the elite's private air fleets might be a good place to start making spending cuts

MANAGEMENT

Stephen Hurst: coffee bean connoisseur

A UK pioneer trader of the best quality crops would like consumer appreciation to resemble that of wine

Sports Direct team risks own goal with PR strategy

The retailer’s elusive leader Mike Ashley is fast becoming a pariah

Recruiters’ use of video games is a fad worth fighting for

Employers are realising they have to change things if they want more diverse workforces

Realeyes: testing emotional reactions to adverts

Algorithmic analysis of facial expressions to help plan media campaigns

Grenoble, France

France’s second centre of innovation, science and research after Paris, with mountain scenery

Feedback

Manage portfolio

Subscribe to the FT

Follow the FT

Unsubscribe | My Account | RSS | Privacy Policy | About Us | Help

© THE FINANCIAL TIMES LTD 2016

You have received this email because you have signed up from the NBE preference page.
This email was sent by a company owned by Financial Times Group Limited (FT Group), registered office at Number One Southwark Bridge, London SE1 9HL.
Registered in England and Wales with company number 879531.